

The Calgary Wildlife Rehabilitation Society is a non-profit, registered charity that treats injured and/or orphaned wildlife so that it can be released back into the wild. Each year, we receive over 600 wild animals into our care from the Calgary area. We receive no government funding. We need your help! We are planning several construction projects this autumn, including a raptor flight cage and a small mammal enclosure for an orphaned fox. You can help by:

*Making a donation of time or money (e.g. volunteer)
Donating any items you may have from the wish list below*

Construction Wish List

The following items are needed at the wildlife centre for ongoing construction projects. We ask that all items be in fair to excellent condition as it is very difficult for us to dispose of un-used items.

The Calgary Wildlife Rehabilitation Society can provide valuable tax receipts for supplies and services as long as a valid invoice or receipt can be supplied. If you have any further questions please contact Nicola or Gillian @ 239-2488
